

Life has been so much better without all the annoying phone calls. The worse was when I would race across the front yard during gardening to catch the phone on my only day off only to hear someone mangle my name and pretend to be nice to try to sell me something. The thing that bothered my husband about these calls was when no one would answer, he kept making nasty remarks to me about a boyfriend calling! If these companies services were so great, I would have kept them or I would find them myself if I need them. I pay for a phone to use at my convenience, not theirs.
